INTRODUCTION.

The Pioneers of Massachusetts deserve high honor from the people of the United States of America. They composed and signed, in the cabin of the Mayflower, Nov. 11, 1620, the grand though simple "Compact," model of all our constitutions; they organized General Courts, patterns of our legislative bodies; courts of judicature and commissions for the settlement of minor cases,—“to end small causes,”—types of our municipal and justices' courts; they gathered congregational bodies of worshippers, embodiments and types of our best, fraternal, religious life; they crystallized the old Saxon town idea into systematic town meetings; they first subscribed to support schools for their children, then devised the scheme of bearing the burden by general taxation, making schools by the people, for the people. And they and their descendants went forth to settle other parts of the great land, and built the foundation of new states out of granite, quarried from Massachusetts ledges. Thus it is the "Commonwealth of Massachusetts" where the largest number of American families had their first home this side of the Atlantic; and to her records and relics come yearly the largest processions of pilgrims, seeking to obtain clues to the still earlier history of their ancestry. Love of family and desire to know and preserve the memory of worthy fore-fathers lead many inquirers into this field. The admirable organizations which keep alive the memory of the Mayflower passengers, which place fresh laurels on the graves of colonial worthies and warriors, which pay honor to the guardians of a country in the face of foreign oppression, the founders of our republican institutions—these societies have deepened the interest and greatly advanced the knowledge of our ancestors.

Thus an increasing amount of examination of old records is made; and the courteous town and church clerks, recorders of deeds and wills, custodians of filed documents in court houses and the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, have abundant opportunity for the display of that remarkable affability and helpfulness which characterize the officials of our state.

Numerous family histories and sketches of the founders have appeared, some of which are models of research and honesty; what a fine list that is which Munsell's Sons present in their American Genealogist! Other books are in preparation and much investigation and compilation is being done for simple, private satisfaction.

But the work of historical research is an art; records, ever so accessible, need skilled readers and interpreters. Apparatus is demanded for the work; charts are needed for the chart-makers.

John Farmer, M.A., having explored to the best of his ability a part of the early records, published in 1628 "A Genealogical Register of the First Settlers of New England," which had great value, and marked him as a benefactor of American students of history. Dr. James Savage constructed a treatise on somewhat different lines, and issued in 1858 his "Genealogical Dictionary of New England." In this four-volume work he undertook to present the chief points of interest in the life of every settler of each of the New England states from the settlement of Plymouth to the close of the century; and to trace out each family through four generations. How well he succeeded in this vast enterprise, how much information he amassed and presented may be told by any genealogist of experience. The scheme was Titanic; the service rendered was Herculean; the name of Dr. Savage deserves high renown. But full success in such a vast undertaking was at that date simply impossible; and searchers find at the close of each volume an alarming list of errata, discovered by the author while the printers were doing their work; and the rolling years have added astonishingly to the list. Had Dr. Savage lived he would have issued a corrected edition, no doubt.

But, meantime, by the liberality of the Athens of America and some lesser cities and towns, a good number of ancient town and church records have been copied with minute care and printed verbatim; the annals of both colonies have been made accessible in this way; and Suffolk county has set a fine example by its publication of almost a dozen volumes of deeds. The state has issued Bradford's History; the notarial records of Lechford and Aspinwall have been brought out; these three volumes illuminating the period of the Pioneers remarkably.

The Mass. Historical Society, the Historic-Genealogical Society, Essex Institute, and other organizations have fixed in type many documents which the tooth of time had begun to gnaw; and the task of the searcher has been wonderfully lightened. These printed books and papers, however, contain only a small minority of the records essential to the making of such a work as Farmer and Savage designed; but they make the difference between an impossible and a practicable undertaking.

The present writer conceived, quite a number of years since, the plan of making a revised edition of Dr. Savage's magnificent work. This scheme was revolved and discussed with gentlemen of wide acquaintance with the subject. At last this conclusion was reached: no man can to-day construct a trustworthy compendium of so many families and so many generations as Dr. Savage attempted. The problem must be separated into parts; divide et impera.

THE PRESENT WORK

narrows the field to the single state of Massachusetts, as bounded to-day; restricts the genealogy to the first settlers and their children only; and confines the study still further to those persons who came here early enough to be foundation-layers, first fellers of the primeval forests, first ploughers of the virgin soil, first makers of homes in the new country, first worshippers in the log meeting-houses, first freeman and officers in the plantations and colonies. What were these but "pioneers," whose bravery, earnestness, fidelity, love, made them worthy to be enrolled by themselves, an honorable list of heroes and heroines. All who came after the year 1650 found Massachusetts a reality, a single state, practically, although under two fraternal colonial governments; all who came before that date helped essentially to make it. Although their jurisdiction extended over a wider field than the present state limits, there seems to the writer a propriety in restricting this volume in this way.

Later volumes by this or some other hand may present the Pioneers of Maine, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Connecticut for that early period, with all the light now thrown on their monuments. This list is large enough for one volume, grand enough for the citizens of one state to call its very own.

The limit of the "pioneer" period is an open question. It might be fixed by the statement of Winthrop in his History.

The parliament of England setting upon a general reformation, both of church and state . . . this caused all men to stay in England in expectation of a new world, so as few came to us."

Although "few" arrived after 1641, yet the records show occasional additions; and a man did not always buy or receive an allotment of land or join the church or do anything which was noted in public records for several years after his arrival. Accordingly the limit has been fixed at 1650, to include all who came before the beginning of that "reformation" which Winthrop counted so significant, and to allow for the full development of the state in its life here and its significance abroad.

The names here given are all which have been found in the journals and lists of the colonies, towns, churches and counties of the period, 1620-1650, inclusive, as well as those perpetuated in the passenger-lists of that time which have survived to our day. When once a name has been found within that period, it has been followed to the last day of the pioneer's life; in a few cases this has extended to the second or third decade of the following century. This has necessitated the scrutiny of the documents until 1720 for record of deaths and probate proceedings.

While the names, dates and facts here stated have been taken by the compiler from the original documents or from such copies of them as have been made and verified by the highest authority, references are often given to pages in the Historic-Genealogical Register or other publications where copies or abstracts of the same may be seen. This is particularly noteworthy in the case of the exceedingly valuable notes of English wills, made by Henry F. Waters, A.M., and the abstracts of Suffolk Co. wills by William B. Trask, A.M.

The original words and phrases are quoted generally. Only in very rare instances has the compiler ventured to introduce an opinion of his own, preferring to put the reader in possession of the materials out of which an individual opinion may be formed. If you had the books before you and could read the peculiar chirography; if you critically studied the words employed, and tested your impressions by comparing one document with another; if you brought years of practise in this sort of reading to bear on the documents,—you would write down in your book the very things which are here presented.

This volume represents the relative amount of matter which exists to-day about these people. Not that all is copied; far from it. But this is a characterizing list; this is sufficient to rank the pioneers for inspection. A full copy of every original line about them would not change materially the impression here given.

THE PURITAN PILGRIMS OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Governor William Bradford, who is the highest authority on the subject, tells us that the persons who came to Plymouth were called Puritans; that their English neighbors opprobriously & most injuriously imposed upon them that name of Puritans which it is said the Novatians out of prid did assume & take unto themselves." The colonists of Massachusetts Bay were chiefly Puritans, also; the most perfect understanding existing between the religious leaders of the two colonies in most respects.

The nucleus of the colony of Plymouth, every one knows, was the little band of men and women who met in apostolic fashion in a private house at Scrooby, Nottinghamshire, on the flat banks of the Idle; whence they removed in 1607-8 to Leyden, Holland, and then came toward the sunset, full of faith in a coming day. The germ of the colony of Massachusetts Bay was a company of business men who met at London, planning for a settlement wherein should dwell righteousness and profit. But Dorchester was founded by a church as definitely organized as that of Scrooby, and brought its two ministers, chosen in Plymouth, Eng., in 1629.

Rev. John Cotton, in 1629, accompanied some of his parishioners from their home in old Boston to Southampton, whence they were to sail for New England, and charged them to "take advice of them of Plymouth and do nothing to offend them." When Salem and Charlestown churches were organized the brethren of Plymouth church were consulted and similar statements of faith and polity adopted.

Bradford says: "Rev. Mr. Warham of the church in Dorchester expressed a desire to one of Plymouth Church in 1630, to be on friendly terms with that church and people, and he declared himself satisfied with their ecclesiastical government and proceedings."

Thomas Holland of Yarmouth was "still a member of a separated church in Old England" in 1641, when his babe was baptized at Barnstable. Michael Metcalf of Dedham left on record an account of the persecutions he had endured at Norwich, Eng., for his puritanic life. Governor John Winthrop wrote honeyed words of farewell to the Church of England, and straightway joined in founding a separate church under the Charlestown oak. Robert Massall was dismissed from Boston church "to the church of Christ at Dover in England" in 1646, and John Westgate to "the church of Pulham Mary in Norfolk, Eng.," in 1674; and Mrs. Lydia Banks, a resident of Salem from 1636 to 1642, was dismissed "to a church at London of which Mr. Nye is pastor," at her request, 6 (9) 1664. Mr. Johnson was received to the church of Charlestown 29 (5) 1660, "by dismission from a church of Christ at Canterbury in Old England." Mrs. Elizabeth Conant's child was baptized at Salem 12 (11) 1662, "upon ye letter from ye church at Corke testifying of her membership there."

These and many other evidences prove the identity of the people of both these colonies with the grand Puritan host of England, described so admirably by Macaulay in his Essay on Milton; who, whether remaining in the organization of the church of England or refusing to conform to ceremonies they believed anti-christian, were one in pure faith and life, one in resolute attempts to carry the doctrines of the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man into all departments of religious and secular life. The term Bradford abhorred was really a good, discriminating title, and it has passed into history. It is not correct, therefore, to call the people of one of the colonies "Pilgrims" and those of the other "Puritans," for both were Puritans in the fact of a holy determination to avoid every impure, degrading fashion and to live by the standards of the Revealed Word of God; and both were Pilgrims in the fact of making a journey from a high religious motive.

These people, however, were not perfect, and they learned slowly the art of giving and taking liberty. The annals of that early period are full of strife; our ancestors brought over many an old notion of intolerance and persecution, which they were sufficiently "conforming" to practice; it took long years for Puritanism to escape from those toils; but by and by came the real fruits of the system. In some cases a person is said to have been "in court" when the whole cause was the harsh method employed by the government in attempting to guard what seemed to the rulers the essential elements of pure religion and good government. The severe legislation of the Puritans was simply imitation of English and continental methods. The cruelties of the Middle ages lingered in statute books on the other side of the Atlantic longer than they did here. Puritanism actually softened the laws, increased the protection of the weak; and it was here, where the Bible was widely opened and Jesus Christ was acknowledged absolute King, that political and religious liberty and fraternity first found complete expression.

One exceedingly valuable feature of this compilation is the presentation of the occupations, estates and social standing of the Pioneers. The summary of these, given on another page, is well worth studying.

The number who took to themselves the designation "gentleman," or had it attached to their names by the writers of passenger-lists, deeds, wills, church, town or court lists, is not very large; in some cases the title was used when a person had been in public office here, and was given by recorders, without reference to social standing in England. With very few exceptions, however, those noted as of "gentle" blood were entitled to use coats of arms and crests. Probably quite a number more had this dignity at home, but did not so appear on New England records. But the great majority of the pioneers were the plain, untitled people, bred to industry and economy, trained to professions, merchandise, trades, husbandry or service. Those who came of noble families were often apprenticed in childhood to learn some trade, or to do house work; and persons who were employed, even in positions of trust and dignity, bore the title "servant" like humble menials. They were educated beyond the average of English people of their time, and their habits were cleaner, more virtuous than the majority of their old associates. And thus they had the stuff and force as well as the faith and patience for the enterprise which made such drafts on body, mind and character as the laying of the foundations of a commonwealth.

The writer wishes to acknowledge very gratefully the privileges and aid extended to him by the clerks of the old towns and churches, registers of Probate, recorders of Deeds, and custodians of ancient books and documents. In addition to placing these treasures at his service without fees, they have shown great courtesy in arranging the most convenient desk-room, light, freedom from intrusion, and in giving assistance when desired. They have recognized the special character of the work, and united to secure its thorough and exact performance. Three summers in England have also given the writer a long list of names to whom similar acknowledgements are cheerfully rendered, for very courteous opening of ancient treasures and facilities extended; and in the city of Leyden, Holland, polite attentions and valuable privileges were also accorded.

It would be impossible to mention by name these many persons, to each of whom gratitude is felt deeply, and without whom the work could not have been accomplished.

SPECIAL DIRECTIONS FOR SEARCHERS.

1. Look for many variations of surnames; allow for phonetic spelling and carelessness. The diphthong ea was usually pronounced a long; consonants were often doubled after long vowels; ph and f were interchanged recklessly; and other alterations were loosely made, such as Hayward, Heywood, Howard and Hawoorth. The indexing of such matter is therefore difficult; and one must sometimes look on several pages before discovering a desired name. Not only did public recorders vary the orthography, but a man sometimes spelled his own name in two or more ways.

2. Always consult the index, and there exercise the same liberal method.

3. Fail not to gauge the meaning of the Abbreviations employed, since many lines of original record have sometimes been compressed into one, in this volume.

4. The source from which a particular word or statement has been drawn can be inferred in most cases from its nature; as proprietorship and town office from town records; church membership, dismissal, etc., from those of the churches; purchase and sale of lands from county Records of Deeds; depositions, giving age, etc., from records or files of the Courts or Colonies; designations of trade, occupation or social position were usually given in deeds, but sometimes in records of admission to churches; wills and administrations of estates in Probate Records or those of the County or Colony. When an item was found in an unusual place, the source has been noted.

5. The dates are given as they were recorded. March 25 was New Year's Day in England and her colonies in the seventeenth century. It is at once a blunder and a crime to alter such dates to suit a calendar which our Forefathers did not use. Their "style" was just exactly "old style," not at all "new." From January 1 to March 25, during which some other nations used the new year number, they often wrote a double date; as "3 February, 1621-2"; but February was still "moneth 12," and even 24 March was in the old year, although the month, by anticipation of "day 25," was "moneth 1."

6. The Author will be grateful for information of any error discovered in this volume, and for facts of definite importance respecting the Pioneers recorded in either American or English documents of that period.

1691-2. To wife Remember; eldest son Samuel and other ch. named above, except Job; Mary is added. Inv. shows farming and tanning outfit.

Mr. William, notary, Boston, appl. frm. Oct. 19, 1630, deacon, 1630, adm. frm. April 3, 1632; res. at Charlestown some time, [town rec.]; deputy, 1637. Wrote most of the Book of Possessions. His notarial record, long lost, has come to light in the Boston Athenæum Library, and is being printed by the Boston Record Commission; it is of great value to students of colonial history. He sympathized with the Hutchinson party, and drew up the famous petition, asking for lenient treatment; was sentenced to be banished, but apologized and was excused. Signed the compact of Rhode Island and Providence Plantation 7 (1) and joined in the purchase of land from Indians 24 (1) 1637-8. [Arch. 2, 1.] Was clerk of R. I., but left the plantation in 1639 and returned to Boston. He was a member of a company of adventurers, incorporated by the Gen. Court 7 March, 1643-4, and led an exploring party that went from Boston in 1644, in a pinnace, to discover the great lake by sailing up the Delaware river, where he had formerly been. They returned in a few months, having been opposed by the Dutch. [W.] The Gen. Court accused him 14 Oct. 1651, of charging the court and jury to make the landlord pay rent to the tenant; forbade his acting as clerk or recorder of any county court, and deposed him from the office of clerk of writs of Boston. He deposed before the Court in case of Thomas Geyner, 31 May, 1652. He gave his house and lands in Bo. to his son-in-law, Mr. John Angier of Bo. June 8, 1652.

Wife Elizabeth; ch. Edward b. 26 (7) 1630, d. 10 (8) 1630, Hannah b. 25 (10) 1631, (m. John Angier,) Elizabeth b. 30 (7) 1633, Samuel b. 30 (7) 1635, Ethlan b. (1) 1636-7, Dorcas b. 14 (12) 1639.

He rem. to Chester, Eng., whence he wrote 13 (1) 1662 to some of the magistrates here, relative to the land which he had given to his son [Angier]. He wrote several books which were published in Eng. See sketch in introduction to Suffolk Deeds, Vol. X. We may note that Mr. Edward Aspinwall of Toxteth, Eng. was a patron of Richard Mather in 1611. [C. M.]

ASTWOOD,

Will dated 16 Nov. 1677, prob. 28 Dec. 1680; wife Margaret, (refers to marriage contract,) ch. Moses, Martha, (wife of Peter Maverick).

William, the distinguished governor of Plym. Colony and author of the remarkable history of its foundation, was the son of William and Alice (Hanson,) Bradford, of Austerfield, Eng., bapt. March 19, 1589-90. Resided at home till the Scrooby church, of which he was a member, removed to Holland, about 1607. He came to N. E. in the Mayflower, signed the Compact; and made his home at Plymouth.

No man did more than he in work as well as care, in the secular and religious life of the Colony. He wrote with his own hand a detailed history of the movement, from the time when the church was organized at Scrooby until the year 1650. Into this he introduced numerous letters and lists of names which bring the life of the Colony before the reader in a very vivid way. The book was kept in the hands of his descendants until the year 1728, when his grandson, Maj. John Bradford, lent it to Rev. Thomas Prince, of Boston, to be used in his preparation of a New England Chronology. At some later time it was carried from Boston to England, and placed in the library of the Fulham Palace. Thence it was brought, by the offices of of Hon. George F. Hoar and Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, lately Ambassador of the United States, and deposited in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, with appropriate ceremonies May 26, 1897. The State government has issued a very beautiful edition of the work, which is sold at the office of the Secretary at $1.00 a copy.

In Leyden, Holland, specified as a fustian-

HARVARD,

REV. JOHN, FOUNDER OF HARVARD COLLEGE, was bapt. at Southwark, co. Surrey, Eng., Nov. 29, 1607, son of Robert Harvard, (name sometimes spelt Harvie, Harvy, Haverede, Harwar and Haward,) citizen and butcher; and of his wife Katharine Rogers, a native of Stratford on Avon. The father was bur. Aug. 24, 1625; his widow m. 19 Jan. 1625-6, Jobu Elletson, citizen and cooper, who d. in June, 1626; she m. 28 May, 1627, Richard Yearwood, citizen and grocer, who d. in Sept. or Oct., 1632. The wills of these persons, of the father of Mrs. Harvard, and of Thomas, bro. of John, discovered and collated by Mr. Henry F. Waters, are presented in the Register for July, 1885.

Mr. Harvard was matriculated at Emanuel Coll., Cambridge, 7 July, 1631, A. B. in 1632 and A. M. in 1635. He married Anne, dau. of Mr. John Sadler, vicar of Patcham, co. Sussex, b. Aug. 24, 1614.

He sold some of his lands 16 Feb. 1636-7, and sailed for N. E. soon after. He settled at Charlestown, where he was adm. a townsman 6 (6) 1637, a special vote giving him "promise of such accommodations as best we can." He and his wife were adm. eh. 6 (9) 1637. As the pastor, Mr. Thomas James, had recently gone away, Mr. Harvard officiated in his place, in conjunction with the teacher, Mr. Symmes, though his ill-health forbade his being installed. Johnson speaks highly of his preaching. The town chose him a memb. of a com. to consider something tending towards a body of laws 26 April, 1638.

The Gen. Court had voted to establish a college at Newetowne, (Cambridge;) and he, being one of the teaching elders of a neighboring church, must have felt the needs and realized the importance of the infant institution. He d. of consumption Sept. 14, 1638; and left to the college at Cambridge one half of his estate, a sum amounting to 700 li. [S.] In consideration of this gift the Gen. Court ordered 13 March, 1638-9, that "the college formerly agreed upon to be built at Cambridg shalbee called Harvard Colledge."

He left no issue. The widow married early in 1639 Mr. Thomas Allen, who was installed shortly after as colleague pastor at Charlestown. The Court granted to him 500 acres of land 6 June, 1639, "in regard of Mr. Harvard's gift." They returned to England about 1650.

She made numerous addresses or sermons on religious subjects in a very earnest spirit, but presented a number of doctrines quite out of harmony with those held by the churches of New England; gathered about her a large number of men, as well as women; placed the ministers and officials of the colony in a position of embarrassment and opposition to herself; and drew down on herself and her brother-in-law, Mr. John Wheelwright, a storm of persecution. She was banished to Rhode Island, but not there relieved from pursuit of the Mass. authorities. To this was added the affliction of Indian atrocities; and she was killed by the savages in Sept., 1643. Her husband was a business man of large ability; and no fault was found with him except for his sympathy and aid to his wife,

INGALLS, see will of Robert Ingolls, of Skirbeck, co. Lincoln, Eng. in Reg. L., p. 72.

JACKSON, Richard; erase "Wm." in last line.

JOHNSON, Francis, seems to be the "Capt. Johnson," who died at Boston Feb. 2, 1690-1, "aged between 86 and 90." [S.]

KENDRICK, KENRICKE, John, Boston, had grant of land at Muddy River, Boston, for 4 heads, 30(10)1639. N.B. This was erroneously copied and printed in the Boston Record Commissioners' volume as "Remicke," and followed by the compiler in former statement.

KIMBALL, Richard, died 22 June, 1675.

KNIGHT, Alexander, married shortly before 10 Oct., 1640, Anne, dau. of William Tutty, gent., of St. Stephens, Colman street, London, Eng., who beq. to her in his will, prob. 9 Jan. 1640. [Reg. XLVIII., 142.]

John, Newbury, m. 2, Ann, widow of R. Ingersoll. John Jr. d. in Feb. 1677-8.

LAW, William, erase statement that his first wife was "widow of Anthony Saddler," which applies to her sister.

LEWIS, John, of Tenterden and Scituat; the christian name of Mr. Bishop, former husband of Alice, is not Nathaniel, and is not known to the writer. The date of the deed is 1669.

LOBDELL, Nicholas, gave letter of attorney 28 (4) 1648 for settlement of an account with Nathaniel Peck, of Barbadoes; one bill dated 4 Feb. 1636. [A.]

LORD, p. 294, heading of first column, should be LOWELL.

LUXFORD; "goodwife Luxford was buried Sept. 1, 1691." [S.]

LYON, etc.; change "Freefrace" to Freegrace.

MANNING, William, father and son were often confused in records. Hannah, dau. of William, Senior, having a child recorded at Braintree as born in 1651, cannot be the child born at Cambridge in 1642. This Hannah and all the children registered at Camb. were of William, Jr.

MANSFIELD, John; see will of John Mansfield, Esq., dated 13, prob. 31 July, 1601, recorded in Woodhull, 47. [Reg. XLVI, 324.]

MARION, MERIAN, etc., John, page 300, removed from Watertown to Boston; children given on page 311 belong to this person, viz. John bapt. 22 (12) 1651, and Isaac b. Jan. 20, 1652. He constituted John Maryon, the elder, of Braintree [Eng.] his attorney 6 (12) 1648, to collect what was due him from the estate of his father, Issac M., late of Stebbin, co. Essex, Eng. [A.]

Sarah Tracy in Nov. 1638; bought land XV Aug. 1639; had grant of land with meadow "by his father's" 2 Nov. 1640; grant recorded previous was to Steven Tracy. N. B. this entry led the compiler to suppose that George was the son of the minister, Rev. Ralph Partrich; but later researches, made at the instance of Mrs. Edward C. Chatfield, lead to the conclusion that such was not the case, and leave the origin of George unknown.

Atba. 1643; frm. 2 June, 1646; constable; took oath of fidelity in 1657; excise officer June 3, 1662; mentioned in list of "ancient freemen and servants" to whom land had been granted, before 1662; juror Dec. 6, 1673. PETER, [incorrectly called Peters,]

Rev. Hugh, b. in 1699 at Fowey, Cornwall, grad. Trinity Col., Cambridge, A.B. 1617, A.M. 1622; preached at St. Sepulchres, London. Subscribed toward the stock of the Mass. Bay Co. in 1628. Became a puritan. Was pastor of the English church at Rotterdam; came to Boston 6 (8) 1635. He was ordained pastor of the church at Salem, where he did an excellent work. He took a broad interest in all New England, and was an active promoter of many movements which helped on the civil, social and religious welfare of the people. He returned to England as one of the representatives of the Colonies at the opening of the Great Revolution, and became one of the foremost leaders of the Parliamentary party. After the Restoration he was brought to trial for treason, and, in particular, for being one of the chief movers for the execution of king Charles I. Of course he was condemned; was hung, drawn and quartered Oct. 16, 1660. His first wife, Elizabeth, widow of Edmund Reade, mother of the wife of Gov. Samuel Symonds, came to N. E. with him or very soon afterward; was recd. to the chh. of Salem. She died, and he m. 2, Mrs. Deliverance Sheffield, who was dismissed from the chh. of Bo. 2 (11) 1639, and rec'd at Salem as his wife. SMITH, SMYTH, Caution. After long study of this surname,—I will not say this family,—the following paragraphs have been prepared. There are, perhaps, some errors of combination, as the assignment of children to the wrong parent; the affixing of the date of freemanship among the various persons of the same christian name; the connection of two records as parts of one life, when they relate to different men, etc. Yet the reader may be fairly confident that these pages contain the elements of the solution of the problems, if not all wrought out with absolute accuracy.

Rev. Ralph, a Puritan of an independant type, asked permission to come to New England with the colony of the Mass. Bay Co.; they consented to his application, and allowed him to come to N. E. in one of their ships in 1628, expressing doubts as to the probability of his independent views harmonizing with the standards held by the company. He was, therefore, taken on the condition that he would submit to such orders as should be established, and that he would not exercise the ministry within the limits of their patent.

He stayed awhile, with his wife and family at Nantasket; requested passage with some Plymouth people to that plantation in 1629, and was soon engaged by the church to be their pastor, and duly ordained to the office. Resigned in 1637, but continued to reside there for some years, [B. and Col. Recs.] Frm. 1632. Appointed on important matters.

Was invited by the people of Jeffrey's Creek, (Manchester,) to be their minister, and sold his house at Plym. and rem. thither about 1645. Was adm. to chh. of Salem 14 (9) 1647.

TILLIE, TILLEY, TILLY, TELEY,

Mr. Edward, came in the Mayflower; signed the Compact; res. at Plymouth. Both he and his wife Aun who came with him died in the spring of 1621. They brought with them cousins Henry Samson and Humility Cooper. The former remained here;

the latter was sent for into England, and died there. [B.]

John, came in the Mayflower; signed the Compact; res. at Plymouth. Took part in the explorations, and died from the exposure and hardships in the spring of 1621. He brought his wife and daughter Elizabeth. The wife d. about the same time as he; the dau. m. John Howland. [B. and Wins.]

Note. Among the marriages at Leyden, Holland, we find that of "Jan Telly, and Prijtgen van der Velde," 3 March, 1615, at Pieterskirk, (opposite the house of Mr. John Robinson). His trade was that of "saeij-wercker," or say-weaver; he was accompanied by his father, Paulus Tellij, and the bride by her mother Macijeken Tay, whose marriage is on record to Abraham van der Velde, 27 June, 1591. Many circumstances point to this as the John Tillie of the Mayflower; yet the date is late for the time of the birth of the eldest child of Elizabeth Howland: nor does it correspond to the age asserted for her at her death. It may be that this is a second marriage of J. T., and Elizabeth his child by a former wife; or that this Dutch wife died, and that Tillie m. a second wife, whose child by her former husband was the bride of John Howland.

Mr. John, Dorchester, came in the first company in 1629-30. [Bl.] Frm. March 4, 1634-5. Had a lot granted him July 5, 1636, as the great lot to his brother's home lot. Seems to have died soon; the house which had been his was ordered to be repaired. Mrs. Tilly's land mentioned in 1637 and 1660. She was a midwife in Boston, and for some reason was imprisoned; petitions of Bo. and Dorch. people for release were denied by the Gen. Court 23 May, 1650.

Nathaniel, ae. 32, came in the Abigail in May, 1635.

I, 127.] His wife is stated by his son, (as quoted in note in Dorch. Church Rec.,) to have been Lydia Bates. Son Ebenezer b. in Jan. 1649.

Rev. Roger, b. according to a deposition he made, about 1601, may be quite confidently stated to have been the son of James Williams, citizen and merchant tailor of London, and his wife Alice; their wills, prob. respectively in 1621 and 1634, mention sons Roger, Robert and Sydrach, and dau. Katharine, wife, successively, of Ralph Wightman and John Davies; Alice specifies that Roger is "beyond the seas." [See the very full study of this matter by Mr. Henry F. Waters in Reg. XLII.] He refers in letters to a bro. Robert, schoolmaster at Newport, and a bro. who was a Turkish merchant.

He arrived at Boston, with his wife, Mary, Feb. 5, 1630. Became discontented and rem. to Plymouth. Was rec'd to the chh. after a time, and chosen assistant minister with Rev. Ralph Smith. [Mor.] Rem. to Salem in 1633 and became minister of that chh. Composed a treatise, in which he maintained that it was wrong for the Colony to depend upon the King's patent as a ground of claiming the country; that the churches of England were unchristian. He sent a copy of this writing to the governor 27 Dec. 1633; was rebuked, and promised to refrain from teaching such things publicly; but broke the truce. He further taught that a magistrate ought not to tender the oath of fidelity to an unregenerate man, and that no christian ought to pray with such a person, though it were his wife or child; that a man ought not to give thanks after the Sacrament or after a meal; etc. He wrote a letter to his church in August, 1635, protesting that he would not commune with the churches at The Bay, who held with the magistrates, nor with them unless they would refuse all such communion; and for this reason refused to pray with his own wife. Kept a meeting at his house for those who agreed with him. [Mor.] After much discussion he was sentenced, 3 Sept. 1635, to depart out of the jurisdiction within six weeks. Rem. to Providence.

After removing he adopted views antagonistic to the baptism of infants and in favor of immersion of adults; but his condemnation by Mass. Bay Colony was on wholly different grounds.

He rendered most valuable service to all New England by his wise influence over the Indians, averting several threatened conflicts. He went to Eng. about 1644; brought back a charter for Providence plantation and letters of commendation from persons of high station, which favorably impressed Mass. Bay authorities. [See W., B., Mass. and Plym. Col. Rec., and letters to Winthrop, father and son, in Mass. Hist. Coll.]

Rev. John, son of Rev. William Wilson, canon of St. George's chapel, Windsor, Eng., was b. in 1588, grad. from Christ's coll., Cambridge, was ordained and entered upon the work of the ministry in England, chiefly at Sudbury.

He was engaged by the Mass. Bay Co. to come to N. E., and came in the fleet with Winthrop. Began to preach at Charlestown 10 July, 1630; joined in organizing the first church July 30, and was ordained its teacher Aug. 27, 1630. Continued in office after the chh. rem. to Boston, and till the close of his life. Was a good preacher, an ardent advocate of what he believed and and vigorous in opposing measures or persons when he thought them opposed to the Word of God. Took a leading part in all the great movements of his day, and stood for orthodoxy and conservatism, even when that involved intense persecution of opponents. Yet was reputed kind and liberal in personal dealings.

N.B. While the abstracts of Massachusetts wills and administrations in this book have been made by the compiler from the original papers or the earliest official copies at Boston, Cambridge, Salem, Plymouth, Taunton, Barnstable and Northampton, he has also referred to the "Genealogical Register," where the reader may find copies or abstracts of a portion of these, made by William Blake Trask, A.M., the late Justin Winsor, L.L.D., and others; and to the same periodical for the "Genealogical Gleanings in England," by Henry F. Waters, A.M., Mr. J. Henry Lea and others, from which a large number of Notes of Eng. wills and admins. have been taken. All these are credited to "Reg.," without specifying the individuals whose work is enshrined within the pages of that inestimable quarterly.

Ancient documents, printed in the valuable collections of the Mass. Historical Society and Essex Institute, have been acknowledged in detail when practicable, but more often in a general way. Genealogies in magazines or separately published are mentioned where special circumstances have made such reference seem desirable; but the statements in this volume are made upon entirely independent examination of original sources; and, in some cases, present facts not known to the writers of those genealogies.

Brackets, [], are used in two ways.

1. They enclose the authority or source of a statement, or a reference to some book or document which may well be read in the connection.
2. They are also used to enclose words or statements which are believed to be correct, but for which the writer has not found absolute, documentary evidence.

The total number of "Pioneers" on record is about 6,000. Of these the occupations of only 1,725 were mentioned; 323 being called tillers of the soil, (including both wealthy landholders and humble plowmen,) 210 house and ship carpenters, 115 tailors, 103 merchants, 91 ministers, 81 shoemakers, 75 sea-captains, 62 weavers, and so on. We have further some 471 cases in which the records specify the settlers'

SOCIAL POSITION.

Gentlemen, Ladies, Esquires, Knights,	117
Yeomen,	122
Servants, Laborers,	240

NOTE.

Let it be remembered that the figures given above do not include all those who belonged to the classes mentioned, because the occupation and rank of the majority of the pioneers was not designated.

Besides, persons sometimes changed employment, and "servants" became "masters," or proved to be "gentlemen." Any employee or person under the control of another might be called "servant," whatever his family connections.
